MISS CONBOY SEES
PRETTY MILL GIRLS,
BIG, STALWART MEN

NOTED MILL WORKER TELLS
REPORTER OF PLEASING
IMPRESSION OF CROWD

MAKES ADDRESS

Four Hundred or More Operatives
Heard Miss Conboy Speak at Court House.

Four hundred or more mill operatives heard Miss Sara A. Conboy, international secretary-treasurer of the United Textile Workers of America, a branch organization of the American Federation of Labor, discuss labor conditions in the United States and outline plans under way for future work, in a meeting held last night in the court house.

Miss Conboy, admittedly, is not much of an orator. In gentility, a smile radiating friendliness and good-fellowship, though, she is the peeress of any woman speaker Anderson mill operatives have ever had the opportunity of hearing. Unity in their work was chiefly stressed by the speaker. She congratulated the mill operatives upon the progress they had made in the way of organization, but told them that there is still much to be done. Miss Conboy said she had in her mind's eye a vision of the southland with its mill operatives working under conditions that permitted them to keep their wives in the home, the place they belong, and their children in the schools. She told them they must stand shoulder to shoulder in their fight to better living conditions, meaning shorter hours, better pay and the abolishment of child labor.

A Forceful Speaker.
The lack of any bitterness or heated expostulations featured Miss Conboy's remarks. Her speech was entirely free of acrid wailing of per-cutions or hard times, being instead, clear, forceful and straight from the shoulder. Her remarks were roundly cheered.

"What strikes me most forcibly here," Miss Conboy told a newspaper reporter in an interview given at the hotel last night, is the spirit of unity that seems to exist among your mill operatives. Also, they seem to be cheerful, more or less content, and do not present the sickly, unhealthy appearance, caused by close confinement, that is so characteristic of the workers I have seen in some sections. "I have not had the opportunity of going out to the mill villages here," Miss Conboy continued, "but I understand they compare favorably with any in the Piedmont. I have visited at the Greenville mills and they are very attractive."

Pleased With Reception.
"I am much pleased with the reception given me here. And the mill girls, Miss Conboy said smilingly, they are the prettiest I've seen anywhere. They look so healthy, so strong and vivacious."

Miss Conboy complained of being tired and went to her room shortly after 10 o'clock. She said she would catch an early train out of here today, going to Savannah via Augusta, at which place she would address the Georgia State Federation convention, which meets in Savannah Wednesday. Leaving Savannah Miss Conboy will go to Augusta, at which place she will address the mill workers, and from there she will return to New York City, making several stops in North Carolina.

A Unique Position.
Miss Conboy holds the unique position of being the only woman ever sent out on a speaking tour by the United Textile Workers. In fact, she is the only woman who has held the position of secretary-treasurer of a big labor organization. Miss Conboy worked as a carpet weaver for 12 years in a big northern mill.

Sheriff Ashley presided over the meeting last night. When it was called to order at 8 o'clock an announcement was made that the Blue Ridge train was delayed 50 minutes on account of a derailment, and that Miss Conboy would not get in the city until 9 o'clock. The crowd good-naturedly consented to wait, and in the interim they were entertained by Mr. C. P. Lockey, who made a well received address concerning mill conditions in the state and the political situation, past and future.

SPLENDID RESULTS FROM CLOVER CROPS

AGENT S. M. BYARS TELLS OF THE SUCCESS IN THIS COUNTY

CITES INSTANCES

Messrs. Will Beatty and Will Mouchet at Iva and Mr. Wade Drake Just Below Town.

"Several of the farmers of Anderson county are getting splendid results from crimson and burr clover," stated Mr. S. M. Byars yesterday. "Not only are they enriching their own lands but are doing much in the way of teaching their neighbors that clover drops pay in this section."

During the past week I was down at Iva and visited Dr. Will Mouchet's farm. He had his plows running in a big field there and was turning under a crop of crimson clover, preparatory to planting it in cotton. Last year he made 101 bales of cotton on 100 acres, and if conditions are favorable this year, I think he will beat that. In some places the clover had not been grazed and had reached a growth of about 18 inches. He had also some crimson clover and abraded rye which he had used for grazing purposes and was turning this under.

"I also visited Mr. Will Beatty's farm there at Iva and was very much pleased with the success he is having with burr clover. He had several acres which was nearly knee high. I know of no one who is doing better with burr clover than he is, and Mr. Mouchet is running the Hodges farm a close second with the crimson clover."

"On Friday, I was at Mr. Wade Drake's farm and he was pulling three disc harrows with his steam tractor. He was plowing in a field that was in crimson clover. It had reached a height of nearly two feet, where it had not been grazed, and all of this was being turned under."

"Anderson county should be proud of all three of these farmers. They are proving that clover crops in this country pay and that there is nothing else that can be planted that adds so much to the soil. This fact is being demonstrated through them to other people of the county. Nitrogen and humus seem to be the lacking elements in crop producing in this section, and clover is the best crop I know of to add these. The organic matter in a crop of crimson clover with a growth of six inches is equivalent to four or five tons of manure per acre. The farmers I have mentioned are also adding about 100 pounds of nitrogen to the acre, not counting the humus. A full crop of clover adds from 50 to 200 pounds of nitrogen to the acre according to estimates made by experiment stations."

Mr. Byars stated that a number of the farmers in different sections of the county had planted small acreages in clover crops, and that yet none of them were disappointed.

THE PALMETTO HAS DELIGHTFUL SHOW

One of Best That Has Appeared
There in Many Months—Giving Something Different.

Bill Clark and his Happy Hour Girls are appearing at The Palmetto this week and if all the performances are like the ones yesterday afternoon and last night, they will doubtless cause record breaking attendance at this popular theatre. The show yesterday was entitled "The Magic Cap," and was taken from B. C. Whitney's "The Show Girl." It was a delightfully pleasing little comedy with plenty of songs, fun and wholesome jokes.

The prima donna of the company is Miss Owen Jacquet who is very pleasing. The comedians are Bill Clark and Ralph Walton, the latter playing blackface. He is different from the usual blackface comedians, and is almost a show by himself. Dave O'Dowd in singing and dancing specialties is clever.

The chorus is composed of Misses Alice Goodenough, Yvonne Mazurette, Irene Barry, Russell LaValle and Bortho Almond, all of whom are much better looking than the majority of choruses which have played in Anderson recently. They have plenty of life, wear dainty costumes and know how to please an audience.

This company has never played in this section before but doubtless the patrons of The Palmetto will want a return engagement before it goes north again.

HEAD OF OIL MILL
CONQUERS TROUBLES

SAYS TANLAC RELIEVED HIM
OF TROUBLES WHICH
BESET HIM FOR 20 YEARS

IS REMARKABLE CASE

After Many Medicines Had Failed,
He Took Tanlac—First Bottle Brought Him Great Relief.

Still another well known and influential Atlanta man comes forward and endorses Tanlac, the new medicine that everybody is talking about, and which is doing so much good among all classes. This time it is D. N. Carroll, superintendent of a large fertilizer works operated here by Swift & Co. Mr. Carroll's standing and influence in this city and state are too well known to require further comment. His address is 1292 Marietta St.

"Tanlac has relieved me of serious stomach and kidney trouble from which I have suffered off and on for fifteen or twenty years," he said to William B. Logan at Jacob's Pharmacy.

"I am satisfied I had neuritis, or inflammation of the kidneys," he continued, "and I also had stomach trouble of the worst kind. I would have fearful swelling of the abdomen and terrific pains after eating almost anything; and I would have pains under my shoulders and in my back."

"This undigested condition of my food, so I was told, resulted in the poisoning of the kidneys and caused the formation of foreign matter in the kidneys and bladder, which would give me terrible pains in the passage of them and also produce uremic colic."

"These attacks would make me sick all over and sometimes cold, and I would have swimming sensation in my head, and attacks of blindness. I finally got so I could sleep very little and was losing weight and strength all the time. I have used only one bottle of Tanlac, and the results are remarkable, to say the least. It cures perfectly with my stomach. Other medicines usually make me sick. My nerves are all right again. My appetite has returned and the indigestion has disappeared completely. I sleep as soundly as a log, and the blindness, kidney and bladder trouble bother me no more."

"I am going to keep right on taking Tanlac, and I am glad to recommend it to my friends."

Numerous cases right here in Atlanta, reported by people of high standing and wide acquaintance are similar in some respects to the case here given, and prove in the strongest possible way that Tanlac is nature's great remedy for the stomach, liver, kidneys and all other deranged vital organs.

Among the Atlanta cases that may be recalled on this point are the following: J. A. Hancock, well known Confederate Veteran and retired business man of Atlanta, suffered from kidney, liver and stomach troubles. He says the results from Tanlac were simply astonishing. H. L. Forrest, widely known Atlanta meat and produce dealer, suffered for five years with kidney trouble, liver derangement and dyspepsia, said he took a hat full of tablets and many other medicines but Tanlac was the only thing which brought him relief. He says he now "eats like a plow hand."

Many others like these are continually being given to the public and being discussed far and wide.

Tanlac, the master medicine, is sold exclusively in Anderson by Evans' Pharmacy—Adv.
